Science. TO this department, the EULECTIC gives lar-ger space than any other magazine in the world not excusively scientific. It not only presents from month to month an ample record of discovery and invention, but gathers from the whole field of forsign current literature the less articles of the most authoritative thinkers and writers; of such men as Profs. Huxley and Tyn-dall, Richard Proctor, B. A., Prof. Owen, Br. W. B. Carpenter, Max Mutier, and Mr. J. Norman

Lockyer, all of whom have been represented in re-cont issues of the Magazine.

Literature. The ECLECTIC also finds room for an array of ic ructive and entertaining articles in general liter ature which is surpassed by none of the litera y monthlies. Its selections are made from all th English periodicals, and occasionally from those of France and Germany, and cover a literature incomparably richer and more productive than any other to which the reader can find access. A class of writers contribute to the English magazines and newspapers such as seldom appear in American periodicals, and the best of these Essays, Reviews, Sketches, Criticisms, are reproduced in the Ectac-
